1. Ing. Walter Stein is the only person now actually engaged in work on the resumed DECCA project in Department TEE of Funkwerk Koeppenick. He is completing the blueprint material for the DECCA receiver; a laboratory model of the receiver is to be built. Work on the phantom transmitter is continuing at the same time in TELG (Laboratory for the Development of Devices). When the DECCA development was temporarily discontinued, the frame of the phantom transmitter had been soldered. Now the transmitter transformers are being wound, and construction of the chassis has begun.

2. As requested by the State Planning Commission, use of the name DECCA is strictly prohibited and the development is only referred to as long-distance navigation (Weitnavigation). Guenther Hintze, head of Department TEE, personally looks all documentary material pertaining to the DECCA development
